

SHORT-TERM RENTALS GUIDE DOCUMENT

Short-Term Rentals (i.e. Airbnb & Vrbo) are now permitted within the District of Hope.

There are two types of Short-Term Rentals in the District Zoning Bylaw:

- Short-Term Rental (guest unit) which is when the operator is renting a out room within their principal dwelling. This use replaces the bed and breakfast use in the Zoning Bylaw so if you already have a bed and breakfast business license you are still good to go.
- Short-Term Rental (dwelling unit) which is when you are renting your entire dwelling unit to short-term visitors. This is a new use being added to the District's Zoning Bylaw.

Both these are permitted in the following zones:

- Limited (L-1)
- Agricultural (AG-1)
- Rural (RU-1)
- Country Residential (CR-1)
- Small-Scale Multi-Unit Housing (RS-1)
- Commercial Transition (C-5)
- Comprehensive Development 3, and 7 (CD-3, and CD-7).

In addition to these zones, a short-term rental (guest unit) is permitted in the Comprehensive Development 4 and 8 (CD-4 and CD-8) zones.

Both short-term rental guest units and short-term rentals (dwelling units) are to:

- Comply with the licensing requirements of the Business License Bylaw and amendments hereto.
- Be limited to a maximum of 8 guests.
- Be contained within a one family residence.
- Be limited to one such use per parcel.
- Be limited to a maximum of 28 days per stay.

- Comply with all applicable regulations and requirements of the BC Building Code, Fire Code, Fraser Health Authority, and all other pertinent health and safety regulations, and all subsequent amendments and revisions.
